

CALL FOR SUFFICIENT ASSISTANCE TO FACE THE HUMANITARIAN CRISIS IN THE DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF CONGO

At the beginning of January 2018, the Democratic Republic of Congo had four million displaced people and the progression is increasing with thousands of people who continue to move to the east of the country especially in Ituri and the North Kivu Province.

This ignored humanitarian crisis of which the DRC Government seems to be minimizing threatens stability in the heart of Africa against Sudan and Central Africa in this country with nine borders where tens of thousands of Congolese have found refuge in Zambia and in Angola, while Burundians, Central Africans and South Sudanese are refugees in this country, whose government seems to be downplaying the scale and underfunded of the humanitarian action to which it is subject.

Chronically poor, despite the riches of its subsoil so poorly shared, the population of the DRC has been the scene of at least three armed conflicts for fifteen months: increased activity of armed groups in the two Kivus (east), Kasai crisis (center) since September 2016 and conflict between Bantu and Pygmies in Tanganyika (south-east).

In 2016-2017, the violence has resulted in the largest internal displacement of people in the world, affecting more people than in Syria, Iraq or Yemen, according to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the Norwegian Refugee Council.

On the eve of elections scheduled for December this year, a major humanitarian crisis in the Democratic Republic of Congo is to be feared

In 2017, the DRC had 1.9 million newly displaced people and to date more or less 4.3 million displaced people, an increase of 226% and making it the first country in the world but of Africa the largest number of IDPs.

In Kasai, even though the security situation is starting to improve and the displaced, often hosted by families, are starting to return to their homes because of the decreasing intensity of fighting between security forces and Kamuina Nsapu militia, the health and food situation is catastrophic. At least 400,000 children under the age of five are severely acutely malnourished and may die in 2018. The alarm bell was drawn by the Children's Nations Fund (UNICEF), which stated that "conditions do not should not improve until June 2018, as the planting seasons in 2017 have been lost."

The UN reports that every year 160,000 children in the DRC die from causes related to malnutrition "

On the health front, the year 2017 has recorded the worst cholera outbreak in the last 15 years with more than 55,000 cases and more than 1,000 deaths. More than 42,000 cases of measles were also recorded in 2017.

Food and nutrition experts estimate that 7.7 million people are food insecure, an increase of 30 percent over the previous year. Twelve months ago, humanitarian actors intended to provide humanitarian aid to 7.1 million people in the DRC, today this figure rises to 10.5 million.

For 2018, the Humanitarian Action Plan estimates that boys and girls under 18 represent 60% of those in need. About 2.2 million children suffering from malnutrition will need assistance. Nearly 50% of funding will go to emergency health and food security projects

The humanitarian crises in the DRC are aggravated - or fueled - by the political crisis in Kinshasa, where the authorities postponed the elections to December 23, 2018, shifting the radical opposition that calls for the departure of President Joseph Kabila by the end of the year.

Despite the magnitude of its crises, the Government of the DRC has just disassociated itself from the humanitarian conference on the DRC to be held on April 13, 2018.

To this decision, the platforms of the national humanitarian NGOs have reacted by inviting him to return to the good feeling for the interest of these malnourished children, these displaced pregnant women wandering sometimes in the bush with their offspring, these old men overwhelmed by hungry and cold, these raped girls frustrated for life, these young people rendered disabled as mutilated, these young people delivered to armed groups and condemned to drugs by war, in short, on behalf of all this large section of the population that suffers from the North to South, from East to West of the DRC.

And this deal with this dramatic deterioration of the humanitarian situation in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) in 2017 that humanitarian actors have launched a $ 1.68 billion call for funds for 2018 to help 13.1 million of people in need.

FONAHD DRC calls for Community solidarity, otherwise the survival of thousands of people is threatened and hopes of early recovery will be destroyed and this through funding sufficient to cope with the scale of the crisis.
